NOTE:

People or companies don't become "members" of Arcat. Arcat isn't an organization where people with common interests trade ideas, etc., but rather more of an industry "Yellow Pages". <http://www.arcat.com/> was primarily a print-cum-internet marketing tool, where you pay to have your info disseminated to mostly architects. This is no "mark of distinction", and is NO indication that they're even manufacturers.

Most architectural signage manufacturers belong at least to ISI—the International Sign Association—as well as USSC—the United States Sign Council, and often ISI—Advertising Specialties Incorporated. One good example of a legit manufacturer who does is Matthews Bronze: <http://www.matthewsbronze.net/welcome.htm> Metallic Arts does not.

An actual manufacturer, and their affiliations. Metallic Arts would have similar if they were an actual manufacturer.

A BEAUTIFUL INNOVATION

ImageCast™
Where pictures tell the story

...an innovative, patent-pending process that offers the ability to create truly personalized plaques that combine the enduring beauty of cast bronze with the detailed look of a photograph. ImageCast™ is perfect for signage, historical markers, or any identification sign that tells a pictorial story.

WE DO ALL THE WORK!

Working from customer supplied images, Matthews' artists create layouts that are cast as well-defined images on bronze or aluminum plaques. These ImageCast™ products can be cast in various sizes and shapes, and color can be added to meet customers' needs. An antique finish is applied to achieve the appropriate contrast. The plaques are finished with Matthews' exclusive Diamond Shield® Protective Coating to preserve the beauty of the metal.
